

CANADIANS FLOCK ACROSS THE BORDER TO AID HARRY THAW

So Many of Them Invade New Hampshire Town That the Sheriff Doubles the Guards About Thaw's Hotel.

JEROME DENOUNCES "CAMP FOLLOWERS"

New York Attorney Bitterly Resents Hostility Shown Him—Thaw Given Ovation by People of Colebrook.

Colebrook, N. H., September 11.—Twenty-five Canadians, several of them outspoken opponents of William Travers Jerome after his arrest at Colebrook, Quebec, last week, on a charge of gambling, and others from Sherbrooke, where Harry K. Thaw received much of the publicity since he has followed the fugitive across the border into New Hampshire and arrived with their coming the intense partisan feeling so evident here. Thaw was in the Dominion. Jerome denounced one of them in public today. Their presence at Colebrook evidenced what was otherwise a trial. Thaw (day for those who have been following the erratic course of Standard White) since his escape from Mattawan Sunday morning. August 17. There was no court proceeding. Thaw's arraignment being put off by mutual consent until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, and Thaw's lawyers, apparently thinking him safer in the custody of the sheriff's officers, abandoned their attempt to release him on a writ of habeas corpus.

Thaw's guards increased. The guards about Thaw's hotel were increased tonight from 12 to 20. They were armed and under the direction of Chief of Police Charles Kelley. The chief appointed his first deputy yesterday after hearing stories that officers from New York might attempt to spirit Thaw away. He augmented them in the face of rumors that the Canadian contingent might essay the same thing with the idea of snatching Thaw from Jerome's hands and at the same time rebuking high Dominion officials responsible for Thaw's sudden deportation yesterday morning. Groups of Canadians stood about the hotel corridors and on the street corners throughout the day and closely followed Thaw on his trips made from his room. The first of these was to the barber shop, the second to the office of his chief counsel, Thomas Johnson. The third, engines running, stood at the curb in front of the office all the time Thaw was within. This so alarmed the police chief that he had the hotel completely surrounded Thaw when he brought out and escorted him to the hotel.

Jerome denounces Canadians. Mr. Jerome spoke with a smile to "night" of his experience in Canada across the border, but added that he had heard apparently authentic reports that some of the more numerous of the Thaw sympathizers from Canada had spoken with a view of liberating him.

Jerome's denunciation of the partisans from Coalbrook occurred in the Woodstock house, where Thaw is housed. The man who interested himself in working Thaw out against Jerome on the gambling charge of which he was indicted, was introduced to him. Jerome looked him over coldly then spoke scathingly. He said he had heard of the man from the Coalbrook, naming the man as the ring-leader. The man, who was strained silence, then Jerome turned his back.

Thaw's progress down Main street to his lawyers' office this afternoon drew the popular curiosity of the village and environs to the scene. Every available vehicle in town was pressed into service, windows along the way were filled with heads. Thaw, head erect and smiling, walked behind High Sheriff Drew. Behind them trotted the small boys of the village, abashed by a small yellow dog, yelping delightedly. From a second story window a small girl tossed Thaw a bouquet of sweet peas. But there was no cheering.

Cousinry charged against Thaw. Unless more delay interests Thaw will be brought before Justice Carr in the morning on the complaint that he is wanted in New York for conspiracy.

CENTRAL FIGURES OF SENSATIONAL TRIAL AT MILLEN

"WOLF" LAMAR UNDER ARREST

Man Who Tried to "Gold-Brick" Wall Street Seized. Lamar Accused of Impersonating Congressman.

Washington, September 11.—David Lamar, conspicuous figure in the senate lobby investigation, and now under arrest and appearing at the capitol almost daily to attend sessions of the senate lobby committee. Later he had been brought here tonight by order of Attorney General McKelvey. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Long Contest Likely. What promises to be a long drawn-out extradition contest will begin September 15, the day set for Lamar's appearance before the United States commissioner here. The warrant on which his arrest was made was issued by the federal court in New York, and had been brought here before only to be carried back, the authorities hoping to get their hands on Lamar in New York state and avoid the necessity of extradition proceedings and delay of probably a year or more.

In the meantime Lamar has been in Washington stopping at the capitol almost daily to attend sessions of the senate lobby committee. Later he had been brought here tonight by order of Attorney General McKelvey. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Jerome denounces Canadians. Mr. Jerome spoke with a smile to "night" of his experience in Canada across the border, but added that he had heard apparently authentic reports that some of the more numerous of the Thaw sympathizers from Canada had spoken with a view of liberating him.

"Spooning Place" on City Hall Plat, Is Dr. Van Dyke's Idea

Says Mayor Woodward Would Approve Plan for Public "Kissing Place"—Let Cops Spoon There, Too.

No man in Atlanta has given more serious thought to the kissing problem than does Mayor Woodward. He has come to the conclusion that if he can get the co-operation of council he has reached a happy solution of the problem.

Alsterman Van Dyke's plan is to obtain an appropriation from council to convert the little grass plat that adjoins the city hall on Forsyth street into a public kissing park. He believes that he may be able to line council up for this proposition, and is assured of the mayor's signature to the resolution.

"Now," he says, "here is the police department worried to death because a pair of lovers gaze at the moon from the capitol steps and sip sweet nectar from each other's lips, so to speak. At the same time it appears that they are having trouble of the same nature in the parks, and are for putting the lid on such doings. Meanwhile, in the interest of matrimony, Atlanta couples must have a place to do their spooning."

Mrs. Godbee on Stand Two Hours Tells of Years of Persecution At Hands of Former Husband

By Britt Craig. (Special.) Mrs. Godbee's statement on the stand, which lasted from 8 until 10 o'clock, was as follows:

"My father died in 1886 at our home in Perkins, Ga., leaving nine children. Of whom I was the eldest. I was then 18. He left as executor to his estate my uncle and cousin, who closed out his mercantile business. Mr. Godbee came to look over the business and bought it. He met me and called on me constantly. On July 12, 1887, we were married. There was constant friction between the two. One day I found some letters of my mother's in his pocket. He had been elected postmaster of Perkins, and was serving in that position. I suspected he had stolen the letters, and asked him if he had not. He choked me and slapped me and gave me a black eye. That was in 1888. In June of that year my first child was born. My mother died in 1889. Following her death our married life grew still unhappier. He insisted upon the removal of the boy made. In telling me of the shooting he said he had done it for my father sake. He would not let me go to the funeral nor see the body, and I found out only afterwards he had kept my relatives away from me afterwards. I managed to obtain the $1500 and gave it to him for his defense in his trial for Jake's murder. That afternoon he was indicted upon Milten. His business in Perkins was about to fail and he was in need of money. He had established him in business in Milten, in which he failed after a year, after which failure he was at his row's end.

The First Persecution. "There was a hotel for sale in Milten. I gave him $1500 to buy the hotel. One year later he was in the hotel. Our two children were in the hotel. He created a scandal in an effort to gain the control of my property from me. He sold her to the house of Wayne, and said that unless I signed a deed for the hotel and all other property to him, he would take my three children. I told scales that this scandal was not true, but that as the only thing that made life happy for me were my children, I would do anything to protect them and leave the hotel. I was put in Judge Godbee's hands. I went to Perkins. A short time later Judge Godbee's relative came to me insisting that I return to him. We were reunited. He again began mistreating me. He forced me to work at a common housekeeper's wages, $10 a month, in the hotel he had bought with my money. "The hotel burned. I bought a home with my own money. Soon we were having trouble about a negro, a servant named Gertrude. Whenever I would leave home he'd have her come and keep house for him. His actions and conduct with this woman were enough to drive me mad. "He went away on a trip. I made this woman leave the house. Upon his return he moved her back into my home. "Hockaday Directing Search. "J. B. Hockaday, of Atlanta, general manager of the Southern Express company, and other officials are here directing the search for the missing money. "Suspicion that the money had been stolen was first aroused when the Savannah Bank and Trust company failed to receive $10,000 in currency shipped from the Chase National bank of New York. The money the New York bank shipped, and received a reply saying it had been sent by the Adams Express company, and was turned over to the Southern Express company by the former. "In the meantime a portable iron safe had been received at the local office of the Southern Express company. The way bill was missing. When the safe was opened only a few packages of currency were found. The safe on the safe had been mailed to the Savannah agent of the company. "The Jersey City office was communicated with and it was learned that the safe, containing the currency, left that Monday night over the Atlantic Coast Line railway. "Messengers Are Grilled. "Expense of the search who had charge of the safe between New York and Savannah were given a severe grilling by Mr. Hockaday and rumors were current here this afternoon that an arrest was about to be made. The safe was denied by the officials. Claim Agent Weaver was hurriedly dispatched to New York to get the safe. His destination is unknown. "It is stated that in the event the money is not recovered the banks will not be the losers, but the loss will fall upon the express company. The money was in two packages. "Local police have not been called into the case.

Messengers That Handled the Safe All Way From New York to Savannah Given Severe Grilling.

Savannah, Ga., September 11.—Tonight a small army of detectives, special agents and express company officials are working in an endeavor to ferret out the mysterious disappearance of $71,900 from a portable safe en route from New York to Savannah. A dove clues have been discovered. The express company officials decided to give out the nature of the "clue" and, and are extremely reticent in discussing the affair.

THAT MRS. GODBEE SOUGHT FOR THUG TO DO KILLING IS SWORN BY WITNESS

Sensational Testimony at the Night Session Feature of First Day of Trial of Mrs. Edna Godbee—The Prisoner Makes Denial.

COURT ROOM IN TEARS AS PRISONER TELLS OF LIFE OF PERSECUTION

First Divorce Action of Godbees Was Taken in Atlanta When They Lived at 389 Piedmont Avenue—Mother of Dead Woman in Court.

By Britt Craig. Milten, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—A stunning blow was dealt by the state tonight in the Godbee trial, when Mrs. Arthur Spader, a telephone operator, told in an outburst of tears on the witness stand of having heard from Mrs. Edna Godbee confess to having hired a thug to assassinate Judge Godbee and his bride three months before Mrs. Godbee herself shot them down.

Mrs. Spader's story was halted constantly by tears. She became hysterical under cross-examination. Following her statement, she was led, weak and faltering, from the courtroom. Immediately afterward Mrs. Godbee again took the stand to make denial of the operator's statement. "Mrs. Spader formerly boarded at the Godbee home. She had called operator at the Milten telephone exchange, and is about 30 years old. In May, she stated, Mrs. Godbee, in a spirit of confidence, told the witness that she had hired a negro man to go to Judge Godbee and Mrs. Florence Godbee, the two whom the woman now on trial killed in the Milten shooting.

Mrs. Godbee's motive, the witness said, was to seek revenge for the taunts and annoyance caused by her victims. They embarrassed her whenever they met on the streets. Mrs. Godbee became a victim of the operator, and sought opportunity to publicly humiliate Godbee's second wife. "Driven to Madness. "Mrs. Godbee told me," said Mrs. Spader, "that she had endured the conduct of her divorced husband and his third wife to the point of madness and that she was desperate. I did not give much thought to her story because I knew how grievous she was and did not consider it strange that she would have such feelings as I thought her to be at that time."

Later, Mrs. Spader testified, the negro man whom Mrs. Godbee was said to have hired to commit the assassination, told Mrs. Godbee's revolver, and was arrested for theft at her order.

Mrs. Godbee Denies Story. Mrs. Godbee, in denying the Spader testimony, stated that she had evicted the pretty operator from the Godbee home because of unbecoming rumors that were traveling over town. She grew intensely mad over the eviction. Mrs. Godbee said, and there could be no other.

Mysterious Bundle of Letters Won't Be Introduced in Trial

Millen, Ga., September 11.—(Special.) From some mysterious source has come a batch of important papers and letters to Mrs. Godbee in Jenkins county jail. But for the fact, as she herself has stated, that she still cherishes a remnant of the victim's memory, they would have been introduced as evidence in the trial. This was made known last night when Mrs. Godbee took the stand a second time.

"Gentlemen," she said, addressing the jury, "they have told you here or Judge Godbee's irreproachable character—irreproachable, I mean, as they tried to show it. By these letters and documents that have come to me from a source which I am at a loss to explain, I could readily show you fair evidence of his attitude toward me and the treatment he gave me.

"There are many letters, both from me and from Mr. Godbee. There are also documents of business and financial transactions which would show quite clearly the man's true colors. They would show how I was treated and swindled and ruined. I have several reasons for not wanting them produced publicly, chief of which is the remnant of regard for the man who in the father of my children. They will not be introduced."

Mrs. Godbee went on further to state that most of this evidence had slipped her memory. She had forgotten it was in existence, she said, until one morning during her imprisonment she awoke to find the package in her cell. No one was able to explain the manner in which it came.

"These letters, no doubt, are the mysterious missives of which so many rumors have spread during the Godbee case. Most of them, it is said, are love letters.

HIS FIGHTING FUTILE, ANDERSON RESIGNS

As Protest Against Democratic Action, He Quits Ways and Means Committee.

Washington, September 11.—As the climax of the vigorous republican denunciation of democratic legislative methods which has marked the currency debate, Representative Sidney Anderson, of Minnesota, on the floor of the house late today resigned as a member of the powerful ways and means committee.

In a speech bitterly assailing legislation through caucus action and partisan consideration of the Underwood tariff bill and the Glass currency bill in committee, Representative Anderson declared that the "system of legislation" as "shameless" made his efforts on the committee a "farce and farce."

Throughout the day the republicans had criticized the means employed by the democrats in framing the currency bill, denouncing the secret sessions of the banking and currency committee and the secret sessions of the caucus which informed the bill. This evening Representative Anderson outlined the floor, and sent his resignation to the clerk's desk to be read.

Why Anderson Resigns

The house listened in silence, and when the clerk concluded Mr. Anderson, in a lengthy speech, explained his reasons for resigning.

"I am an induced to resign my membership on the committee on ways and means," he said, "because the rules of this house and the system of legislation in vogue here deprive me of my opportunity for service to the country on that committee, and because my confidence in the committee must be continued in to an equivalence in fraud upon those who have a right to believe, and do believe, that I have had no opportunity to express my views on the legislation reported by that committee."

"The rules of the house, written and unwritten, deprive me of my opportunity for service and the system of legislation, visible and invisible, which obtain here strip me of my prerogative as a representative of the people of the present system of legislation, the inevitable result must be that no industry and ability on the part of a member can be of any use."

Values to Fight

He reviewed the course of the tariff bill through the ways and means committee and the house and said: "I have had no part in the framing of the tariff bill, a committee of the house and the senate. I shall have none. I am overwhelmed and disheartened by the uselessness and fruitlessness of it."

In an analysis of the operation of the caucus system, Mr. Anderson declared that fourteen southern states—

CRIMINAL CONSPIRACY CHARGED TO U. S. JUDGE

Chicago, September 11.—Charges of criminal conspiracy were filed in the United States district court today against Federal Judge M. L. Landis, assistant district attorney Edward W. Goodman and Harry A. Parkin and others. The charges were made by Attorney Hymen K. Epstein, who was on the affidavit of the federal grand jury. The charges were made by Epstein while he was in the courtroom of the federal court, where he was on the affidavit of the federal grand jury. The charges were made by Epstein while he was in the courtroom of the federal court, where he was on the affidavit of the federal grand jury.

The charges were made in Judge Landis' court by Epstein, who introduced an affidavit while pleading for a return of his right as attorney to practice in the United States court. Epstein charged that he had been sent to prison on the strength of a conspiracy between Judge Landis, the two government attorneys and Mr. and Mrs. Silver.

Epstein represented the Silver in a bankruptcy proceeding. Silver confessed to perjury and gave testimony which resulted in his and his wife's sentence to the federal penitentiary. Epstein, who was called as a witness, aver, stated in his affidavit that Silver had told him that his testimony, which was used to convict Silver, was false.

Epstein revealed the fact that as a "convict clerk in the mail department of the prison he had read all of Silver's letters in and from his wife. He accused Judge Landis' when he read from a notebook questions from Silver to District Attorney Wilkinson, Judge Landis said.

"For your information, I may say I never again send a prisoner from this court to any penitentiary where a man's private letters are not kept from the inspection of the other prisoners."

WORLD NEARS SHORTAGE IN FOOD AND CLOTHES

British Scientist Says That in Century We Will Be Up Against It.

Birmingham, England, September 11.—The startling geographical explorations passed with the finding of the earth's two poles; the geographer of the future will have as the field the vital questions of supplying and distributing food and clothes to the world, in the opinion of H. N. Dickinson, president of a section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, who addressed the Birmingham meeting today.

Mr. Dickinson is professor of geography at University College, Edinburgh, Scotland, and a recognized authority on the subject of meteorological and geographical topics.

Forecast of these questions, Mr. Dickinson believes, will be that of growing wheat enough for the world's bread. A host of problems of the future are envisaged behind this, among them being the questions of obtaining power and energy sufficient to produce the needed increase in food, the fuel question and the distribution of population.

Within a century he estimates the resources of the world will be taxed to their full capacity.

"Civilized man is beginning to realize that the earth is not a boundless storehouse of resources, so we are making progress so rapidly that the problem of the future is not a few years' supply, but a few centuries' supply," said Mr. Dickinson. "We are getting into the position of the mariner whose food is constantly expanding, and who foresees that his provisions soon will be too small. In our case, removal to more commodious premises seems impossible, so we are driven to consider means of reutilization of the old, and so making the best of what we have."

"In the days of civilization, with which we are most familiar, there are two fundamental elements of mechanical energy: the supply of mechanical energy. Since at present mechanical energy is produced by the combustion of fossil fuels, these do not occur together; there is a third essential factor, the line of transport."

"The supply grows short."

Dr. Dickinson referred to the wheat acreage as not keeping pace with the increase of population.

"If properties based upon population statistics are trustworthy," Mr. Dickinson declared, "the crisis will be upon us before the end of the century. After that, we must either depend upon some substitute to reduce the consumption of food, or we must take to intensive farming of the most strenuous sort."

"There must begin in the near future," Mr. Dickinson continued, "a great equalization in the distribution of population. A number of causes, among them being intensive cultivation of land and more uniform distribution of manufactures."

"That is what we want," he continued, "is that we should seriously address ourselves to stock-taking of our resources. We should vigorously prosecute the collection and discussion of geographical data of all kinds, and the major natural distributions shall be adequately known. Eventually we should find that country planning will become as important as town planning. In the meantime geographical knowledge will yield scientific results of much significance about the nature and distribution of population and industries, and the degree of adjustment to new conditions which occur or is possible in different regions and amongst different peoples."

WRITE TO CONGRESSMEN ABOUT TAX ON FUTURES

Senator Hoke Smith Offers Advice to the Opponents of the Imposit.

Washington, September 11.—(Special.)—Write to your congressmen if you want to defeat the Clarke cotton futures amendment.

This was the advice given tonight by Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia. Modification of the Clarke amendment to the tariff bill is indicated. Informal conferences are being held with that end in view.

Senator Smith offered a substitute amendment approved by the department of agriculture when the Clarke bill was before the democratic caucus. But the proposal was voted down.

The Smith amendment would require the New York exchange to adopt the New Orleans exchange form of contract. This would permit the nine government standard bales to be tenderable on contracts at differences fixed by actual transactions in the spot market. It would bar the schemes under which the New York exchange multiplies the farmer by fixing an arbitrary price on inferior and unsalable cotton which the rules of settlement permit him to tender in settlement of contracts.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

All the News of Real Estate and Building

Inquiries as to real estate are keeping the real estate dealers busy during the first days of the fall. An unusually large number of prospects are in sight.

LID CROWD DOWNED IN NASHVILLE ELECTION

Tennessee Capital Goes for a
"Wide Open" Town—Ex-
Gov. Patterson Involved.

Nashville, Tenn., September 11.—Complete returns from half the wards in the city and incomplete returns from the others indicate at 9:30 o'clock tonight that Mayor Howse has been elected over both his opponents and that no run-off will be necessary.

Mayor Howse represented the liberal or wide open element. His opponents favored the enforcement of the prohibition law and a "closed" town.

Former Governor M. R. Patterson, who was recently arrested when a notorious house was raided, and who has heretofore opposed the prohibition law, fought Howse. Patterson charged that the raid on the house when he was arrested was a "frame up" and was instigated by Howan.
